Dear colleagues and members of the breast cancer global community,

We are fully aware of the enormous amount of breast cancer conferences currently being offered all over the world. Still, after almost 6 years of preparatory work, publications and dedicated sessions during national and international breast cancer meetings, we felt that it was the right time to launch a scientific and educational event entirely and exclusively dedicated to advanced breast cancer.

Survival of these patients is increasing and their quality of life is also improving but these progresses have been painfully slow. Management of advanced disease has suffered from the lack of strong international collaboration in both clinical and translational research that could lead to faster advances and evidence-based standards of care. As a consequence, both caregivers and patients often feel lost in a labyrinth of so many different expert opinions and scattered guidelines efforts.

The European School of Oncology (ESO) has established a Task Force on Metastatic Breast Cancer in 2004 and since then has continued to support this effort, mostly in collaboration with EBCC (the European Breast Cancer Conference), ESMO (European Society of Medical Oncology) and the JNCI. The journal The Breast (IF 2.155) has also given great priority to the topic and has received positive feedback from the community.

There is an urgent need to develop strong, standardized, scientifically sound guidelines that can be applied internationally. Implementation of high quality guidelines in the early breast cancer setting has had a proven significant impact in the survival of these patients. We have come together with the ambitious aim of providing advanced breast cancer patients with the same benefit!

Please join us in this endeavour to improve the lives of advanced breast cancer patients, who would benefit greatly by this focused activity.

We look forward to seeing you at the Advanced Breast Cancer First Consensus Conference, in Lisbon, 3-5 November 2011.

Rate: EUR 35

Departure to Sintra, a small delightful town in the forest covered Mountain of Sintra, immortalized as "Glorious Eden" by the World famous poet Lord Byron. Located about 30 kilometres northwest of Lisbon, there will be a visit to the Royal Palace of Sintra, a fabulous royal residence of many Portuguese Kings, with wings and halls dating from the 13/14th Centuries. Sintra is excellent for shopping souvenirs and handicraft, and there will be time at leisure. Descending the mountain on to Cape Roca, the Western-most point of continental Europe, a stop will be made by the cliffs over the Atlantic Ocean. Then following the coastline the tour will pass by Guincho Beach, Boca do Inferno (Hell's Mouth) an ocean carved spectacle in rock.

Arriving at the old fishermen village of Cascais, which in the 1940's was chosen as residence by exiled European Royalty, a stop will be made by the lovely bay filled with fishing boats.

Time at leisure in Cascais, and return to Lisbon via the Estoril coastal road.
