Empower junior professionals in the oncological field with the scientific knowledge, technical expertise and soft skills necessary to advance cancer research and patient care.

The Academy is part of the OEI Presidential Program 2023-2026 and wants to produce well-rounded scientists who can perform top-level innovative science, secure funding for their research, effectively communicate their findings to a diverse audiences, and lead their teams with confidence and integrity.

The final goal is to contribute to the global fight against cancer by training the future scientists and leaders in the oncological field.

- Grantsmanship is considered the “art” of writing research grant proposals, encompassing technical principles of:
 - science methodology
 - scientific writing and communication techniques
 - marketing techniques
- Grantsmanship can make the difference in the successful funding of a good research project
